State Will Finance Detour Around Fire

Promise of Action Seemingly Through Efforts of Representative Henderson.

UP TO DISTRICT ENGINEER

Mr. Henderson and Senator Guy W. Brown and others of Fayetteville called in Legislator Prentiss Highway Department, need of relief.

By continually camping on the banks of the officials of the State Highway Department at Harrisburg, Representative Joseph H. Henderson has had several action on the situation regarding the state road east of here.

He will introduce his bill Monday.

Representative Henderson came Saturday night from Harrisburg, and, together with his colleagues in the House of Representatives, he will be seated in the gallery of the House of Representatives on Wednesday night at a meeting held at the Elks Home.

The features and purposes of a rotary club will be outlined by Frank Kell of Scotland, a trader in the work at that place and representative of the district governor. Rotary Club President talks with Charles T. Keppel, president of the Chamber of Commerce, and others.

Mr. Kell introduced his bill Monday.

Mr. Henderson said that he had received a letter this morning from the Harrisburg Informer, stating that the Statehouse delegation would be reassembled at once if the present one could not be opened on Monday.

Mr. Henderson is in charge of this delegation, and is in charge of the State Department, will be asked concerning the step to be taken if it is understood he will find the bill.

Mr. Henderson said that he had received a letter this morning from the Harrisburg Informer, stating that the Statehouse delegation would be reassembled at once if the present one could not be opened on Monday.

Mr. Kell has already started work on a detour around the fire. He is clearing the surface to allow enough room to get at the mine fire. He has been cleared with a team and men have been placed on top of the mine.

He has been working on the mine.

GEORGE B. MCCORMICK

WIS UNIONTON GIRL

A wedding of much interest to the day found of the bride and groom was that of Miss Gertrude Clegg, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. N. Clegg of Uniontown and George B. McCormick of the city solemnized this evening at 6 o'clock in the parsonage of the Second Presbyterian church in Covington. Rev. H. B. Kirk, the pastor officiated. There were no relatives. The bride is a young woman who has a number of friends in Coalville. Her bridegroom has resided in Connellsville all his life and is one of the most widely known young men in the community. He is employed in the iron department of the Wright Steel Company and is a veteran of the World War, serving overseas with the Medical Department of the 100th Infantry. Mr. and Mrs. McCormick will reside in the new residence purchased in North Pittsburg street.

Mrs. G. A. Post Hostess

Beautiful appointments, signifying of Valentine Day, provided a charming children's party which Mrs. Clarence A. Post, hostess yesterday, at her home in East Cedar Avenue, in honor of the tenth anniversary of the birth of her little daughter, June. The house was bright to see. Fourteen small friends of the home girls were present and spent a very enjoyable afternoon. Various games were played and drinky places were provided. Mary Joanns, Walt and Mary Davis, followed the game in small groups, strolled in the little grove where delicious luncheon was served. The table decorations were unusually attractive. A color scheme of red and white was cleverly carried out. A heart shaped white cake, each holding a tiny gift, was set upon a coverlet. The tables were covered with lace, lace cups and saucers and sweet pastries. The games were various. The next meeting will be held at the home of Miss Clara's City Colley on April 1st.

CAUTION IN COKE MAKING.

The present is a time when the producers of coke should exercise prudent caution lest they disturb the stability of the trade in the very important particulars of causing a surplus production with a consequent lowering of prices to levels beyond which it would be unsafe to go, in view of the prevailing high costs of manufacture.

Coke makers are aware of the extreme sensitivity of the market to changes in demand and supply. When buyers come into the region freely prices quickly soften and, conversely, when more coke is made than is wanted can readily absorb, produces set out on a search for destinations for loaded cars and the price scales down in proportion to the intensity of the effort to find buyers.

Conditions are apparently ripe for just such a development. During the past week there was a stimulation of production beyond what conservative observers believe to be justified, with the demand for heating coke becoming smaller as an open approach there is present the danger that, if there is further increase in the number of ovens in blast or continued activity in spreading up those now in the running, there may be a surplus of coke on the yards and sidings before business comes from other quarters to take the place of the dwindling heating coke trade. If that happens, as is not improbable, everybody connected with the trade knows that there will be offerings at prices designed to invite orders. Even if limited to coke which does not measure up to standard in quality, any shading of price will have instant reflection in the price of the coke of the best grade with the result that all producers will feel the effects.

The end of the present winter not being very far away, manufacturers and other buyers are already beginning to watch the market with a view to making the most advantageous contracts. Whatever opposition to weaker spot prices for the grade or quality of coke will serve as an argument for a lower contract price during the second quarter than governed the first, it being a matter of good business for consumers to make the best bargain they can.

On the other hand, the coke makers have fairly good reasons why they should not contribute to a price reduction. The rather free advances that are being made in the price of bituminous and flue coke steel products should attract any declining tendencies in the prices for cokes. If not, also cause of advance, a large part of coke production are still at a high range and without any prospect of a revision downward. The intrinsic value of coal-tar coke is constantly being enhanced. Taxes and other overheads have not been reduced, nor are these changes susceptible of elimination by any system of cost accounting.

It is, therefore, plainly up to the coke producers to shape their course of action so as to keep the trade free of those influences over which they have a certain measure of control and which will have the effect of bringing prices to a level where a fair rate of profit on their product is no longer possible. In the present circumstances it is, above all, the part of wisdom to avoid over-production.

Every day and in every way the actions of some persons, professedly eager for a police probe, are becoming bitter and bitter.

Thrift Alone Can Restore Waste
By S. W. STRAIN,
President American Society for Thrift.

Never before in the history of the world has there been such urgent need of universal practices of thrift. From the most reliable statistics obtainable at this time, the total war indebtedness is $380,000,000. This includes all the national obligations of one hundred countries and colonies.

As an indication of the rapid needs that the war and various forms of waste have made on the resources of humanity, a few comparative figures may be quoted. The total pre-war indebtedness of the one hundred countries and colonies was $42,000,000,000. At the end of the war this amount had risen to $205,000,000,000. Therefore, world-wide national indebtedness increased $162,000,000,000 during the four-year war period, or a little over $40,000,000,000 a year. Between 1918 and 1922, the date of the latest available figures bearing on this subject, the increase was $175,000,000,000, or more than $10,000,000,000 per year.

In other words, through lack of extensive thrift the world waste since the war closed is annual about $10,000,000,000 more than during the year of the most destructive conflict of all times.

It is to be borne in mind, of course, that these figures do not make an entirely accurate revelation of the world-wide economic status. Money is itself not wealth. It is merely the symbol of wealth. Also, a portion of world indebtedness would be eliminated if all the nations could get together and balance their accounts. However, taking all of these things into consideration, the fact remains that during the last eight years there has been the most prodigious loss of wealth that has ever been witnessed.

And whatever has been lost, whether through war destruction or through economic waste, can only be restored through practices of thrift.

This is fundamental that cannot be denied.

Carrying for the rest of advancing commodity costs, world-wide economic instability, and social unrest, one need go no further than these figures.

People in all countries must work and save and develop efficiency. And, as America is today the leader of nations, it is the right and duty of the people of the country to set an example in thrift for all humanity in spreading up those now in the running, there may be a surplus of coke on the yards and sidings before business comes from other quarters to take the place of the dwindling heating coke trade. If that happens, as is not improbable, everybody connected with the trade knows that there will be offerings at prices designed to invite orders. Even if limited to coke which does not measure up to standard in quality, any shading of price will have instant reflection in the price of the coke of the best grade with the result that all producers will feel the effects.

The end of the present winter not being very far away, manufacturers and other buyers are already beginning to watch the market with a view to making the most advantageous contracts.

Whatever opposition to weaker spot prices for the grade or quality of coke will serve as an argument for a lower contract price during the second quarter than governed the first, it being a matter of good business for consumers to make the best bargain they can.

CASEYS AND UNITY FRAT PLAY TONIGHT TO SETTLE SCRAP FOR FIRST PLACE

Teams Have Been Tied Since League Opened First Meeting.

B. & O. VS. LEGION ALSO

A premature title clash will take place in the City League tonight. At 7:15 o'clock the Casey Club and the Unity Fraternity, now tied for first place, will play for the first time. Both teams have shown strength and the outlook is for a real battle.

Fans who have been following the league games and many others interested in the teams are planning to be at the game this evening. There is a double bill on account of the reason the first clash will be played at 7:45 o'clock. The second game will be between the Legion and Baltimore & Ohio quintets.

Last year the Casey-Frat contest was the first clash of the season. The Fraternity lost and since then the two teams have never clashed. With both of them tied for the League lead now, the initial game this year holds considerable interest.

The Casey Club has added "Red" Lester of Scottsdale to its line-up and he was used Tuesday. Campbell of Uniontown is another strong man on the Casey roster. The third new addition to the team is that of Donadio, the Roman whirlwind.

In their first game this year the Legion defeated the railroaders and tonight, the Baltimore & Ohio, augmented by some added strength, may surprise the second-golden with their now quintet.

DUNDEE NO MATCH FOR PINCHOT; OUT ON FEET IN THIRD

Two knockouts, one technical and the other actual, occurred at the boxing show arranged by the New Fayette Athletic Club, held at Shulah Hall, West Side, last night. One, by Kid Carpenter, was in the opening bout and the other was scored by Eddie Pinchot of Charleroi in the main affair when his opponent quit.

Eddie Pinchot, featherweight champion of Pennsylvania, was entirely too good for Dundee of New York. The latter could not get out of the ring soon. Pinchot struck him with some hard ones and in the second round Dundee was saved from a knockout only by the bell. In the third frame the New Yorker hung on the ropes and his seconds threw the towel into the ring, ending the battle.

In the semi-final Young Zebish of Pittsburgh gave Johnny Pollock of Dawson, a severe laceration. Pollock took Zebish out after Young Plaza, also of Pittsburgh, the scheduled opponent, had broken his arm. The Dawson boy was not in condition. It was a six round fight.

Previous to this Young Wolgast, who lost his leg in the World War, put on an exhibition fight with Kid Taylor of Louisville, Ky. Wearing an artificial leg Wolgast got around the ring with surprising quickness.

Joe Schurer of North Side, Pittsburgh and Kid Stinger, also of Pittsburgh, made things interesting in the second bout. It was a six round affair and full of pep. The scrap went to a draw.

In the four round curtain raiser Kid Carpenter of New Kensington, a feisty scrapper who seems to be making strides, scored a knockout over Jack Hurley of Oklahoma. He had Hurley in a bad way in the second frame and then finished the scrap in the third.

The house was not as good as had been expected. The preliminary cards were very pleasing to the fans but many were disappointed when Dundee quit so easily. With a worthy opponent a fight by Pinchot would be a real feature.

TRY MAGNESIA FOR STOMACH TROUBLE

It Neutralizes Stomach Acidity, Prevents Food Fermentation, Sour Gas, Stomach and Acid Indigestion.

Doubtless if you are a sufferer from indigestion, you have already tried pepper, charcoal, drugs and various digestive aids and you know these things do not always give relief.

But before giving up hope and deciding you are a chronic dyspeptic just because you cannot eat well—try Magnesia. Not the ordinary commercial carbonate citrate, or milk, but the pure bisulfated Magnesia which you can obtain from your druggist in either powder or tablet form.

Take a teaspoonful of the powder or three compressed tablets with a little water and you will notice a difference which is a sure sign of its value. It will instantly neutralize the dangerous hydrochloric acid in the stomach which now attacks the food you eat. It relieves burning gas, wind, flatulence, heartburn and the bloated or heavy, uncomfortable feeling that seems to follow most overeating.

You will find that provided you take a little Bisulfated Magnesia immediately after a meal, you can eat almost anything you like without any fear of indigestion. Moreover, the continued use of the Bisulfated Magnesia cannot injure the stomach and may even cure it.

High School Meets Norwin Here Friday

Tomorrow night at the High School gymnasium the Connellsville High School, now believed to have fully recovered from its slump, will play the Norwin High School outfit. The team showed up fine at North Braddock on Tuesday and those who accompanied the team said the cohesion and team spirit was again at par.

Norwin has been defeated by the Cokers once this year, but by a slight margin. Always an aggressive organization it will not be possible for the locals to stow up a moment and a good clash is in prospect. The game is scheduled in the W. P. I. A. League.

Both Praise Therapeutic Treatment for Overcoming Long-Standing Stomach Troubles.

"I doubt if anyone has more real cause for praising Tanier than Mr. Boyle and I," stated Mrs. E. M. Boyle, 162 Howerton avenue, Catonsville, recently.

"Stomach trouble was my chief complaint—I couldn't enjoy my meals and simply felt miserable after eating, and just on my second birthday Tanier gave me a rapidly corrective diet which brings back my strength and energy."

"My husband, just like myself, thinks Tanier is the greatest surgical genius made and he certainly has right to—for it has relieved him of a case of stomach trouble of twenty years standing. His trouble started with typhoid fever twenty years ago, and he has been suffering from indigestion and other stomach disorders ever since—that is until he got Tanier."

"But he is all right now, for he says we don't feel a sign of stomach trouble. We can certainly give Tanier a high recommendation, and urge everyone who is suffering from stomach trouble to try it."

Tanier is for sale by all good drug stores. Over 35-million bottles sold.

So frequently the frock that is not vogue of the round or button-shaped collar has even risen to several sizes.

Collar fashion is more the reason for the many to whom this is an unusual neckline for the blouse than for dresses.

The blouse and the panel collar are two of the most popular and most attractive to every other detail. The blouse to be unbuttoned, the frock, the vaguely shaped, light, full or plain, and round necks. In other day frocks, the blouse is unbuttoned, but the collar is flat, but two types are most frequently featured—one half belt's width, the other, that is, the width with the panel in back and the blouse in front, and vice versa, and the panel both front and back.

The blouse to which neither blouse nor panel style is becoming, there are the half collars, all these are round and

TRADE COMMISSION BLOCKED IN EFFORT TO GET COST DATA

Defeated In Both Claire Furnace and Maynard Coal Company Cases.

DOES NOT HAVE POWER

To Compel Answer to Questionnaire, Comits Holding that Congress Can Regulate Instrumentalities of Commerce, Not Articles Shipped Therein

The recent decisions of the federal courts on questions involving the right of the Federal Trade Commission to require coal, coke, furnace and other industrial enterprises to make reports of the costs of production have been a surprise to many in the coal or the commission's own camp against the Court of Appeals of Ohio.

Columbus decided the Claire Furnace Company case on appeal to the lower court, only for the power of the commission to exact information of the kind sought in the questionnaire. Last week Justice Bailey of the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia handed down a decision in making permanent the injunction in the Maynard v. U. S. case, thus straining the decision of the court requiring reports on the cost of producing bituminous coal.

The right of the commission to require reports of the cost of production, and to demand from the operators, under the investigative clause of the commission, was tested by the Maynard Company, which operates mines in Ohio and Kentucky. It went into the Supreme Court of the District and asked an injunction against execution of the Federal Trade Commission's directions. Arguments were advanced that the order of the commission imposed hardships in that the company's accounting system, was not so ordered as to yield the information asked and that the commission had no constitutional authority to tell the company to supply the information.

In the process of the examination, it was argued, came from the interests of the Constitution, and the coal company was not engaged in interstate commerce. It was admitted that some of its product was shipped out of the state in which the company operates, but the point was made that the shipment was not part of the production of coal mining.

The court accepted the view of coal company on this point, stating in the decision making the injunction permanent that "the defendant seems to confuse articles shipped with instrumentalities of commerce, power to regulate the latter does not include the power to regulate the former. Nor does the fact that an article is necessary for the operation of an industry make it subject to regulation by commerce. If this were true Congress would have power to regulate the production of steel necessary for the construction of locomotives; lumber, for the construction of coaches; rubber, for the construction of springs; clothing, for the sustenance of crews; in fact, there is almost no article that might not be included in this manner."

The trade commission will, it is expected, appeal from the decision. An appeal to the United States Supreme Court has already been taken in the Claire Furnace Co. case.

Explanatory of the scope and effect of the decision in the Maynard case, the National Coal Association has issued the following statement:

"Owing to a confusion that has apparently existed in the public mind as to the motives underlying the action of the bituminous coal industry in challenging the right of the Federal Trade Commission to compel the submission of cost of production data, a decision rendered by Justice Jennings Bailey in the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia in the Maynard Coal Company case is of significant interest.

"The Maynard suit was brought in 1920, after the bituminous operators had been ordered by the Federal Trade Commission to submit cost data.

and a special form laid down by the commission. This form differed in some material details from the one used in the case in the Treasury Department, but, the commission's form, would have called a double set of books, but nearly all the operators, it was upon this point involving serious expense to the producing companies and adding to the production cost of their product, that the Maynard action was instituted.

Time and again since the suit was begun the coal industry has been attacked as having attempted, through arbitrary regulation, to prevent the flow of data being made public through the medium of the commission. In these attacks the point has been ignored that precisely the same information was submitted to the Treasury Department under its own prescribed form, as well as the further fact that the industry, whenever called upon, has voluntarily submitted all such data to any public body, exactly as it is doing with the United States Coal Commission.

In its opinion the court holds that the Federal Trade Commission can not require that information be furnished in such a form as will necessitate a revised form for each company.

Incidentally, the court also holds that, regardless of the form in which the information may be required, the commission has no power to demand the furnishing of any information relating to costs of mining coal.

Dealing with the general issues of the action, the court in its opinion says:

"The defendant (Federal Trade Commission) attempts to distinguish its case, and refers to the allegations of the amended answer to effect that coal is important with a public interest, but the mere fact, if it be true, that coal is important with a public interest does not transfer the control of its control from the states to Congress."

"The question is not whether a state may regulate the price and production of coal upon the theory that it is important with a public interest, but whether such power has been given to Congress, and I find no such power.

"The defendant seems to confuse articles shipped in commerce with instrumentalities of commerce. The power to regulate the latter does not include the power to regulate the former. Nor does the fact that an article is necessary for the operation of an instrumentality of commerce make it subject to regulation by Congress."

"If this were true, Congress would have the power to regulate the production of steel necessary for the construction of locomotives; lumber, for the construction of coaches; rubber, for the construction of springs; food and clothing for the sustenance of the train crews; in fact, there is almost no article that might not be included in this manner."

The trade commission will, it is expected, appeal from the decision. An appeal to the United States Supreme Court has already been taken in the Claire Furnace Co. case.

Explanatory of the scope and effect of the decision in the Maynard case, the National Coal Association has issued the following statement:

Suits For Two and Three Piece Effects

that follow an Oriental trend but upon the magical number of three pieces. They may combine the virtues of either frock and coat or skirt and jacket.

They may be designed with the sure-to-be-popular new short jackets. They may take to jacquard effects. Or they may content themselves with conventional straight tailored lines.

The materials in vogue are delightful. Pique Twill is one of the most charming of the new fabrics. Prices range $29.75 to $60.50.

Camel's Hair For Sports

WE ARE sponsoring the vogue for Camel's Hair suits with these jaunty little sports models developed in the original pure Camel's Hair fabric.

They have the short beltless jacket that Youth will wear this Spring and the fashionably long lapel.

Other sports suits come in tweeds, daring checks and fancy mixtures, some with knickers. They are priced $19.75 to $35.

Trim Tailleuses

developed in Tricotine

Unusual at $25

WOMEN who see fit to limit their clothing expenditures this season will be interested in this offering.

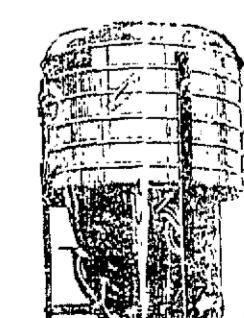

For there is hardly any woman—who matter what her figure—who cannot wear this type of suit and wear it with distinction.

And, at $25, there is hardly any woman who can't afford one.

The garments show smartly tailored lines and are fashioned in tricotine of good quality. Which means that their wearables will be neat and that you will be delighted with the wear and tear.

One of the favored models has a stand-up collar, a pleated back and fastens in front with a single button. That proves it's new for Spring. A complete range of sizes at $25.
